Storm Death Toll In Nation Nears Fifty Mark Today

Sub-Zero Temperatures In Midwest Follow Northwest Blizzards

WEATHER CHANGE MAY STEM FLOODS

(By International News Service)

Sub-zero temperatures following northwest blizzards gripped the midwest today as the storm death toll throughout the nation neared the 50 mark.

Freezing temperatures which are expected to hit as low as 5 below zero in Illinois and 5 above zero in Indiana are expected to ease the flood threats in both states.

Warns Of Gales

The Chicago Weather Bureau warned of westerly gales, snow and a cold wave from Minnesota, the Dakotas and Wisconsin, across northern Illinois through northwestern Indiana.

The lowered temperatures were expected to stem the surging Wabash, St. Francis and Ohio rivers which have been running rampant through Missouri, Illinois and Indiana during the past week.

Still another snow storm buffeted Washington State and the Pacific northwest where the death toll had reached 13 last night. In its wake was a new cold wave which the weather bureau said would last for at least 48 hours.

Five persons are missing in storm-harassed areas of the northwest—three in British Columbia and two in Oregon.

Some Relief For West

Some relief from the cold wave was promised in Oregon and northern California where the week-old cold air mass was being pushed back by warm westerly winds from the Pacific ocean.

In the midwest, the cold front, accompanied by winds of gale force, moved across the Great Lakes through Michigan and into Canada, causing wide-spread damage to communications and power lines.

East and south of the cold front, there was rain and sleet. Northern Arkansas reported flood-swollen rivers steadily rising.

PA NEWS OBSERVES

Icy highways early Sunday morning resulted in highway department cinderling crews being called into duty for several hours. A. A. Martin, county superintendent reports. Later in the day, rising temperatures freed the roads of their treacherous condition.

Shenandoah Township Volunteer Fire Department received its first call of the year for a grass fire on Saturday. Due to uncertain information being given on the location of the fire, the fire fighters went on a wild goose chase. Rural residents should be explicit in giving directions to township fire departments, so that no time would be lost.

J. C. Wachtman, of the G.N.C.A. informed PA News this morning, that during breakfast time for the numerous birds which he feeds at the feeding station at his home, an unusual occurrence took place. Some cardinals, sparrows, a titmouse and a nut hatcher were feeding when a blue jay arriving on the scene let out a shrill sound and all the birds were off on a flash. Mr. Wachtman discovered on a bush on the Dr. Sankey property, a hawk, which he later identified through its tail as the sharp-shinned hawk, numbered among the useless birds which derives about 90 percent of its food preying on song birds.

Rescued After 40 Hours Trapped In Mine

ALLENTOWN, PA.—Looking with a dazed look, Joseph Burda here is being wheeled from the admission room after spending about 40 hours, in a mine cave in, his brother Edward Burda of Morea, Pa., is still entombed 120 feet below the surface.

Little Hope Of Mine Rescue Of Third Brother

MAHANOEY CITY, Pa., Jan. 16.—(INS)—Hopes of finding entombed Edward Burda, 25, alive virtually vanished today when State Mine Inspector Ben Reineohel said it will take rescuers 24 to 48 hours longer to reach the trapped miner.

Reineohel made his gloomy forecast as weary rescue crews, digging even with their bare hands in a desperate race against time, tunneled ceaselessly for the third straight night.

Volunteers, digging through the debris of a mine shaft which collapsed at 2 p. m. Friday, rescued Edward's brother, Joseph, 30, after 40 hours early yesterday.

A third brother, Frank, 19, managed to scramble to the surface when the independent mine began to cave in.

Edward Burda is virtually buried alive some 120 feet below the surface, more than twice as deep as his older brother had been entombed.

Reineohel said that "with luck" the frantically digging rescue crews might get through to Edward within 24 hours.

But he reported that the going is now so tough that the determined but tired rescue teams must dig only seven feet since 9 p. m. (EST) last night.

There has been no sounds or signs of life from the shaft.

Post Office Scene Of Triple Shooting

Janitor Is Killed And Two Postal Inspectors Critically
Wounded

ROBINSON, Ill., Jan. 16.—(INS)—A post office janitor was killed today and two postal inspectors are in critical condition from wounds and injuries following a wild gun battle and fight in the Robinson post office.

Officials said the shooting and slugging followed an argument between the two postal agents and the janitor. They refused to elaborate on details.

The slain janitor was Harry Taylor, 55, a veteran of 10 years service.

The U. S. government agents wounded and injured were identified as Inspectors Thompson of Springfield, Ill., and J. J. Shears of Effingham, Ill.

Janitor "Berseker"

Thompson was struck twice in the abdomen by bullets fired from two .45 caliber pistols wielded by the apparently berserk janitor.

Shears was beaten badly about the head with a pistol butt as he disarmed Taylor.

Taylor suffered a head injury in the battle which Robinson police said might have been caused either by a blow with a pistol butt or a bullet.

The agents had been conducting an investigation at the post office when he suddenly seized two pistols from the post office money window drawer and began firing.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Jan. 16.—(INS)—Some 70,000 consumers were left without gas for cooking and heating today when workers at the Bridgeport Gas Light company walked out in a dispute over pensions.

The strike began at midnight after more than five hours of negotiations between company and union representatives and city mediators.

March Of Dimes Campaign Is On In County Today

KIWANIS CLUB SPONSORS DRIVE

Lawrence County residents were given their first opportunity to contribute in the annual March of Dimes today, the 1950 campaign for $15,000 with which to fight this dreaded disease having formally opened this morning, Peter Grizzle, campaign chairman announced today. The drive will last through February 4.

Every community is being asked to step up its contributions this year by Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, who points out that $52,000,000 is needed if the nation is to continue caring for the most tremendous case load in the history of infantile paralysis, continue research vital to conquest of the disease, and be able to give aid and assistance in 1950 outbreaks.

On the heels of the worst epidemic in history, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis faces the worst financial crisis since its establishment. Mr. O'Connor states. In the year 1949 alone, in excess of 42,000 cases were reported, and the costs of patient care reached $31,000,000. More than 17,000 of the 1949 patients will require continuing care at an estimated cost of not less than $20,000,000. The funds of the National Foundation are now exhausted.

In Lawrence County, 24 persons were given assistance during 1949. With some, the cost was comparatively small, but in several other (Continued on Page Two)

Finland Has Election Today

"Anti-Soviet" President Is Expected To Win Decisive Victory

HELSINKI, Jan. 16.—Democrat Finland, on the edge of the iron curtain, went to the polls in freezing, snowy weather today to elect Juhon Paasikivi—termed "anti-Soviet" by his communist opponents—a decisive victory.

The balloting, to be held today and tomorrow, takes place less than three weeks after Russia protested that the Finns are violating their peace treaty and friendship pact with the Soviets by harboring an alleged 300 Soviet "war criminals."

The Moscow note was seen in some quarters as an effort to put "pressure" on the voters. However, the Helsinki government has held up its reply to the note to keep the left-wingers from making the exchange a campaign issue.

In all, about one million 100,000 men and one million 300,000 women are eligible to cast votes for 300 electors who, in turn, will ballot for president on Feb. 14.

Paasikivi, who has been in office since 1946, has the backing of Premier Karl A. Fagerholm's Social Democrats, top group in the middle-of-the-road coalition government.

See Difficulty In Removal Of U.S. China Diplomats

Planned Return Of All U. S.
Official Personnel In Red
China Provides
Problems

FOREIGN PLANES NOT ALLOWED TO LAND

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—United States officials foresee difficulty today in the planned removal of 135 diplomatic and consular personnel and their dependents from Communist China.

The State Department announced Saturday that all American representatives would be withdrawn from Red China as a result of the seizure of consular properties in Peiping.

Two factors are uppermost in official minds as representatives in China prepared to return home. They are:

1. The difficulties likely to be encountered in getting exit visas from the Communist regime. These have been held up in the past until Chinese employees were liberally remunerated and bonds posted to insure any unpaid debts.

2. The problem of transporting diplomatic representatives home. Presumably a special ship would be sent for them, as well as other Americans who wish to return. Such a vessel would probably have to go to Shanghai, where the Chinese Nationalists claim to have the approaches mined.

While the State Department has asserted there would be no mass migration of the personnel called home, past history indicates that they will probably have to come home in a group.

No foreign planes are allowed to land in Communist territory, and consequently, transportation will have to be by ship.

It may be comparatively safe for officials in Tientsin and Tsingtao to leave separately. Ships go into those ports with comparative impunity, despite the Nationalist blockade of Communist held ports.

U. S. Consul General Angus Ward and his staff from Mukden sailed from Tientsin without any trouble.

The Isbrandtsen line's Flying Arrow, which was heavily shelled while trying to make the Shanghai port, has since set sail for Tsingtao, indicating that the Nationalist blockade is not extending that far.

While the U. S. is deeply concerned by the seizure of its properties in Peiping, interest centered on the action the French and Dutch will take over similar moves made against their property.

Lancaster Girl's Slayer Hunted

Body Of Missing Marian Baker, 21, Found On Saturday Afternoon

BELIEVE LEAD PIPE USED IN SLAYING

LANCASTER, Pa., Jan. 16.—(INS)—Hundreds of Franklin & Marshall college students were potential suspects today as police stepped up efforts to find the "lover's lane" killer of pretty 21-year-old Marian Baker.

The attractive secretary's bludgeoned body was found Saturday afternoon beneath two sheets of corrugated roofing under a cottage three miles south of Lancaster.

Police investigators admitted possessing these clues thus far: A college emblem on an automobile which was seen last Tuesday night near the lover's lane where Miss Baker was slain.

A 22-inch long piece of lead pipe, an inch and a quarter in diameter, believed to be the murder weapon.

The story of an eight-year-old who reported seeing the girl enter an automobile late Tuesday afternoon and ride away with an unknown male escort.

Lead Pipe Found

The lead pipe was found in Mill Creek which flows near the cottage where Miss Baker's battered body was found.

One end of the pipe stuck out of the water and police hinted it may have been thrown from a nearby bridge by the panicky killer. The pipe was being subjected to laboratory tests.

State police said a systematic check will be made of students not in class last Tuesday afternoon when Miss Baker dropped from sight after leaving the Lancaster post office. Earlier in the day she had picked up an engagement ring. The ring has not been found.

But weather forecasters said only crisp, cold temperatures are expected, with a few snow flurries confined to the lakes region.

BURIAL PLANNED AT ARLINGTON

GEN. HENRY H. ARNOLD

SONOMA, Calif., Jan. 16.—(INS)—A war hero's funeral in Arlington cemetery was planned today for beloved Gen. Henry H. "Hap" Arnold, 63, a native of Pennsylvania, pioneer aviator and retired commander of the night-fight air force in history.

The one-time farm boy who became wartime leader of the U. S. army air forces died suddenly yesterday morning at his ranch home in Valley of the Moon, near Sonoma. He had been ailing since 1944.

Tentative plans were announced for a burial with heroes honors in Arlington National cemetery next Thursday afternoon. But plans were delayed pending the recovery of Mrs. Arnold, who was under a physician's care suffering shock.

Death came to the five-star general just five minutes after he arose and remarked to his wife that he was "feeling pretty good."

His physician, Dr. R. L. Mollenhauer, said Gen. Arnold had suffered three heart attacks in two years, the most serious of them in July, 1948. Since then he contracted pneumonia twice.

Heart Specialist Dr. Russell Lee commented that the five-star general should have retired in 1944, when he had his first attack.

"But things were hot," Dr. Lee said, "and he decided to take his chances with the rest of the soldiers."

The snow-thatched, pink-cheeked general had a good humor and imperturbable nature that distinguished him all his life. He was born on a farm at Gladwyne, Pa. (Montgomery county).

Surviving besides his wife, Eleanor, and three sons, Col. Henry H. Arnold, Jr., Capt. William B. Arnold and Lt. David Arnold, and a daughter, Lois, wife of a naval flyer.

Mrs. Arnold asked that no flowers be sent. Instead, she said, the general would have preferred contributions to the Air Force Aid society.

May Discuss Threatened Fair Deal Program Revolt

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(INS)—House Democratic leaders may discuss with President Truman today the danger of a threatened Congressional revolt against the administration's D "Fair Deal" program.

Speaker Rayburn of Texas and Majority Leader McCormack of Mass., will visit the White House this morning along with Senate members of the Congressional "Big Four" for their weekly conference with the President.

Indications are that a good portion of the time will be taken up with a discussion of the surprise move by the once-powerful House Rules Committee to regain its virtual "life and death" control over legislation.

Rescue Nearly 1,000 Fishermen On Floating Ice

Small-Scale Dunkirk Is Staged On Wisconsin
Lake On Sunday

HUGE ICE FLOE MOVES OFF SHORE

OSHKOSH, Wis., Jan. 16.—(INS)—Sheriff's deputies who helped stage a small-scale Dunkirk when they rescued nearly 1,000 fishermen from an ice floe in Lake Winnebago checked the floating ice today for any possible stragglers.

The large group rescued included many women and children. They left behind them more than 200 automobiles which still were on the ice.

They were fishing through the ice yesterday when a sudden crack developed without warning as the wind shifted to the west and blew at 60 miles an hour.

The ice on which they were supported suddenly developed into a huge drifting floe which was blown out into the lake, 100 to 300 feet from shore.

Extended 30 Miles

The floe extended for 30 miles from Fond Du Lac, Wis., to Neenah, Wis.

Anxious car owners and rescue workers hoped that a cold spell which set in soon after the ice break would freeze the open stretch of water and enable them to salvage their stranded cars.

Normally, the ice on Lake Winnebago is from 15 to 18 inches thick. But it failed to withstand the buffeting of the strong winds and, as the fishermen drifted helplessly from the shore, a hurried call for help was sent to Sheriff Harry Zarling.

Zarling immediately called in all his deputies, while police at Oshkosh and other cities along the lake were mobilized. Similar action was taken in Fond Du Lac county, at the southern end of the lake.

Shoreside residents brought out their stored boats while Oshkosh police broke into locked park districts.

Fail To Observe Lewis' Suggestion To Return To Jobs

Some 45,000 Failed To Return In Western Penn-

Mines

WEST VIRGINIA AND EASTERN OHIO HIT

By JOHN GOLIGHTLY
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 16.—Over 55,000 soft coal miners refused to work in three states today despite a work resumption "suggestion" from United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis.

Latest figures tallied 5,000 diggers idle in eastern Ohio, another 45,000 failed to work in western Pennsylvania, and 6,000 stayed home in northern West Virginia for the second straight week.

Some observers said the men were "ignoring" Lewis, but coal industry sources discounted the theory and maintained the shutdown was a continuation of Lewis' effort to force steel corporations into signing new contracts.

Lewis sent "Suggestion"

The sources pointed out that Lewis had telegraphed local UMW officers a "suggestion," not an order.

About 344,000 bituminous diggers continued the three-day work week across the nation, including an estimated 20,000 of the 76,000 who failed to work in eight states last week.

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation reported three of its mines, employing 4,500 in the Pittsburgh district, were idle. U. S. Steel Corporation's subsidiary, H. C. Frick Coke Company, was shut down in Fayette county by miners who voted "no contract, no work."

Weirton Coal Company, a Weirton Steel Company subsidiary, reported its Isabella, Pa., mine was closed.

Not "Revolt" on Lewis

Officers of UMW locals did not interpret the move as a "revolt" against Lewis. They said the diggers are "fed up, working without a contract" and think they should cease work until "something is done."

Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company, the world's largest commercial producer, also has been affected by the shutdown. It employs 5,000 in northern West Virginia, half of whom were reported idle. Only three of its Pittsburgh (Continued on Page Two)

Coulthard Remains As Superintendent Of Cascade Park

Council Fails To Approve Measure's Move To Replace Him Today

Effort of Director of Parks Joseph F. Medure in council meeting, held in the city building today, to dismiss C. C. Coulthard as superintendent of Cascade Park and replace him with Tom George, failed. Mr. Coulthard remains the incumbent.

During council, Mr. Medure offered a motion, saying: "With the approval of council, I submit the name of Tom George, as superintendent of Cascade Park."

Mayor John F. Haven stated, in reply: "You have not vacated the position as yet. Mr. Coulthard was put in as superintendent by council and he must be taken out by council."

"I offer a motion that C. C. Coulthard be dismissed as superintendent of Cascade Park," said Mr. Medure.

Addressing council, the mayor, as chairman of the body inquired of council: "Any remarks?"

There were no remarks. "There has been no second to the motion, therefore there is no motion," said Mayor Haven. Council then took up other business.

Y.W.C.A. Members Voting By Ballot

To Announce Result Of YW Election At Annual Meeting On Tuesday Evening

Todate around 250 ballots have been returned to the YWCA electing new members to the Board of Directors. All ballots must be in by 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Tollers will count the ballots during the afternoon and have the report ready to give at the Annual meeting Tuesday evening.

All YWCA members who have not already sent in their ballots are urged to do so immediately. One aim of the YWCA, as in all democratic organizations, is to increase participation. A very important way to participate is to mark the ballot, sent out annually to all electoral members.

Membership on the board of Directors is on the rotating basis, with one third going off each year and eight new ones being elected. One term is for three years. A woman may serve for two terms, or a period of six years, but according to constitutional ruling, an interim of one year must lapse before she may run again. Valuable women are lost, therefore, but yet new women, willing to give of their time and ability, are thus trained for service.

MAY DISCUSS THREATENED 'FAIR DEAL' REVOLT

adopted by the House Jan. 3, 1949, the opening day of the 81st Congress. This procedure deprived the committee of its authority to pigeonhole legislation.

It provided instead that if legislation was not acted upon in 21 days, it could be called up in the House for a vote without the committee's approval.

Could Be Far-Reaching
The rules committee repeal resolution is sponsored by Rep. Cox (D. Ga.), a leading member of the Southern Democratic bloc and a close friend of Speaker Rayburn. The committee's action, if approved by the House, could be far-reaching in its implications.

It could mean the death for this session of Congress, and for an indefinite period thereafter, of such key Truman proposals as civil rights legislation, federal aid to education, repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law, and statehood for Alaska and Hawaii.

Virtually absolute control over legislation would be restored to a seven-man southern Democratic-Republican majority on the 12-member rules committee.

STORM DEATH TOLL IN NATION NEARS FIFTY MARK TODAY

Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia, although little damage was reported from the storms.

Winds of 40 to 50 miles an hour punished Chicago where the temperature was expected to reach zero in the suburbs.

Several Frozen To Death

Two children were frozen to death in Washington State. In British Columbia, an elderly woman was frozen to death, and a baby was born dead after its mother was carried through a howling storm to a hospital.

Near Yelm, Wash., fire in her home took the life of a seven-year-old girl.

In the northern California community of Hilt, a 63-year-old man froze to death in zero temperature only 50 feet from the door of his cabin.

In Wyoming and Colorado, winds reached 82-mile velocities. Four airplanes were wrecked and several homes damaged in Colorado Springs.

The coldest spot in the nation was Chester, Mont., where the temperature registered 45 degrees below zero.

trict boathouses for other craft. Police and volunteers forced their way into private boathouses when the owners could not be found.

No Panic Develops

There was no panic. Fishermen quietly awaited passage in the boats to the shore and safety as aircraft of the Wisconsin Conservation department and private planes wheeled over them to drop instructions on how to reach rescue points.

Sheriff Zarling said no one was injured in the rescue operations. The most serious difficulty was encountered at Point Comfort where the wind was so strong it was found necessary to allow the boats to drift to the ice with long ropes attached.

As they were filled with marooned fishermen, they were pulled ashore. More than 100 were rescued in this fashion.

The marooned cars were not believed in any danger of being permanently lost. Plans call for their being brought to shore as soon as the ice break freezes over.

instances the cost has been heavy. Besides providing hospital treatment, the local chapter bought three sets of braces, and one wheel chair, County Chairman William R. Hanna reports.

A total of $5,787.61 has been expended for treatment, with three patients still undergoing treatment in the Watson Home, and one in the Industrial Home for Crippled Children at Pittsburgh. The local treasury, like the national, is completely exhausted.

Lawrence County was more fortunate than several of its neighboring counties. Only one death was reported from polio here, while Butler County, only a few miles to the east had a large number of fatalities.

Attractive contribution boxes were distributed throughout the county on Saturday and today, by the committee from the Kiwanis club, headed by Chairman Grizzle.

In addition to Mr. Grizzle, the committee consists of Alderman L. C. Mantz, treasurer; Joseph A. Hartman, school division; M. Dale Andrews, industrial division; and Russell Forney and Robert Loudon, activities committee.

Persons who wish to make contributions by check need only to drop their check in a letter to March of Dimes, Care of Postmaster, and the contribution will reach its destination safely.

dricks is reported to have seen Miss Baker enter an old car Tuesday afternoon.

Theory Of Police

Police theorized the girl, engaged during the Christmas holiday to Edgar Rankin, 22, of Conestoga, entered an automobile driven by someone she knew and later was beaten when she refused improper advances. Rankin apparently was cleared of suspicion after an examination by police.

Deputy Coroner C. P. Stahr said marks on her neck indicated she had been choked before her skull was beaten and gouged with the murder weapon.

A semi-circular bruise on the neck indicated the weapon was a piece of pipe, he said.

Police said the condition of the body indicated the slayer dragged the body about 60 feet from the car and tried to bury it near a refuse dump but the hard ground resisted his efforts. Later he used the roofing to hide the body.

The first woman to obtain a medical degree in the United States was Elizabeth Blackwell, who was graduated from Geneva Medical college in western New York state, in 1849.

FEDERATION JUNIORS

HEAR JUDGE BRAHAM

Ver, interesting and informative was the address delivered by the Honorable W. Walter Braham, Judge of Lawrence county, to the members of the Federation Juniors when they met at the home of Mrs. William Y. Gibson, Jr., 305 East Edison avenue.

Judge Braham's talk revealed a thorough knowledge of conditions existing in Lawrence county and its vicinity before the settlement of the white man. The bitter struggle between the British and the French for a stronghold in the new country soon weakened the Indian regime until finally their members were very much depleted by either warfare or migrations to other territories. However, we are constantly reminded of the fact that the Indians did live in New Castle and Lawrence county and surrounding territories, and in fact, all over Pennsylvania, when we hear their peculiar names of rivers, mountains, counties, towns and streets. These and many other reminders never allow us to forget the native inhabitants of the United States.

Miss Kathryn Boston, who introduced Judge Braham to the group, graciously thanked him for a thoroughly interesting "history lesson" and the federation members responded enthusiastically.

Later, a short business meeting was conducted, with the president, Mrs. George Marquis, presiding. At this time routine reports were read by the officers and committee heads. The club advisor, Mrs. Ezra Marvin, was present. The next meeting will take place on February 2, 1950, at the home of Mrs. S. E. Wray, 508 Centennial street. Mrs. Edward McNamara will review the current popular movie, "The Heiress," starring Olivia DeHavilland.

AFTERMATH OF TRUMAN'S MESSAGE

This session of Congress will consider some of the most controversial legislative proposals in history. Yet no one seems to expect that much definite action will be taken one way or the other.

The fireworks began with Mr. Truman's State of the Union message, which contained nothing new, nothing that had not been anticipated. The President asked, as he has on many occasions in the past, for broadened social security, the compulsory Federal health insurance bill, some tax increases and adjustments, his civil rights program, repeal of the Taft-Hartley law, and the Brannan farm price plan. The response to his speech divided pretty much along party lines. The Democrats, with a number of exceptions—particularly the Southern bloc, which is prepared to fight the civil rights proposals to the bitter end—praised his program as being just what the country needs. The Republicans, almost to a man, denounced it, some vehemently—about 100 GOP Representatives signed a round-robin statement to the effect that Mr. Truman is firmly committed to the eventual socialization of the United States.

A change in the President's mannerisms and attitude was noted. The rather somber humbleness he first showed on taking office has gone. In its place, he shows utter confidence that he is right and his opponents are dead wrong.

If, as is expected, Congress turns down or defers most of the President's program, will it be a defeat for the Administration? That brings up a very curious situation. Some of the earnest commentators have been saying that Mr. Truman does not really want the program to pass at this time—that, indeed, its passage would actually amount to a severe setback to Administration plans and strategy. The reasoning back of this point of view is simple enough. The Democrats, like the Republicans, are looking to 1952. Recent events certainly indicate that Mr. Truman will run again, though he has not said so. Therefore, the argument goes, Mr. Truman wants the stage set so that he can go to the country, point to Congressional refusal to give him what he wants, and base his campaign on that. His advisors seem to feel that this would be sound politics, and that it would enable the President to paint his opponents as black reactionaries and tools of special interests.

Practically everything that this Congress does and says will be colored by the race for the Presidency that is to be run almost three years hence—as well as by the elections of next fall. As has often been noted, Senator Taft's campaign for reelection will command principal national interest in 1950. On domestic policy, he is the unquestioned leader of his party. If he wins, he will have the inside track for the 1952 nomination.

RECIPROCAL TRADE POLICY TEST SEEN

Senator Owen Brewster (R), Maine, believes that as a result of the devaluation of the British pound and other European currency Democratic trade policies are about to get their first test in years.

Brewster says that first the war and then the depression prevented the Roosevelt-Truman reciprocal trade program from getting a normal test.

Now, the senator explains, the country is about to be flooded by European goods. He says this is the result both of devaluation of European currencies and the lack of tariffs on many goods coming into this country. As an illustration, he says that a dozen ships bringing wood pulp from Sweden put in at Maine ports recently. He continues:

"I think the country will feel the impact of all this next summer and foreign trade will be a major issue in the congressional elections."

Brewster proposes "proper protection" for American industry and farmers. He says this would mean "higher tariffs in some instances."

The senator contends that imports of wood pulp from Sweden have already hurt Maine farmers. "A lot of them will go hungry this winter because of reduced sales of timber," he contends.

JUGS TO JETS

A jet plane makes no bones about announcing itself. There is a mildly terrifying whoosh, not quite like anything ever before heard by mortal man. Jets are no longer zoo specimens in many areas over which they have flown.

But before long the sound of jets will be heard everywhere in the land, as the Air National Guard switches from "jugs" to jet planes. This conversion is reported to be under way in several states.

Wherever jets make their appearance, people are forced to revise their techniques of observation. Since a jet of the new type running wide open crowds the sonic barrier, there is no use looking in the direction of its whoosh to see it. The jet always is several miles in advance of the spot from which the whoosh comes.

It's been described as like winging a rocketing black duck. Shoot at the duck and it will not be destined for the oven. Lead well ahead of him and there may be duck meat for the table. The same thing goes for jets. It's all a part of growing up to this superconic age.

The old fashioned woman who used to spend her time over a red hot stove has a modern daughter who spends her time at bridge over red hot gossip.

May Foreshadow Historic Event

A new phase in relations between France and Germany is in the making today and it may foreshadow a historic event—the first visit of a top-ranking German official to Paris on a peaceful mission since 1939.

Speculation over an end to this 11-year breach between continental Europe's two greatest powers has been heightened by French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman's latest visit to Bonn on the Rhine.

Obviously, the trip was made to discuss current Franco-German problems with no outstanding item on the agenda.

But in addition to Chancellor Dr. Konrad Adenauer, Schuman will see President Theodore Heuss.

And it seems likely that in either or both conversations, the subject of armaments reduction to visit Paris will be discussed.

Of enormous importance. Matters of protocol still are of enormous importance to the European mind and Western German democracy might profit greatly by a Franco-German conference in Paris.

Communism suffered one heavy blow when the Western German government was formed and another when the Allied High Commission made public its blueprint for the new Germany last Thanksgiving Day.

This is the document that provided for German representation in foreign diplomacy and trade, a certain suspension of dismantling and reconstruction of a limited merchant fleet.

But German leaders, insisting that they are suppressing Nationalism and have eradicated Nazism, feel that the time has come for a greater voice in European affairs.

This attitude was made known with particular vigor after Economic Cooperation Administrator Paul Hoffman voiced his demand for a greater integration of national economies among the countries of Europe.

Enacted to Some Degree The Hoffman plan has been enacted to some degree. But not even the most enthusiastic admirer of European recovery unity is handicapped would pretend that the maximum in cooperation has been reached.

Unsettling of the general European economy by uncontrolled dismantling and the gigantic reparations taken by Soviet Russia served to point up the continued importance of Germany as the in-

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

THE NEW AGE OF CHIVALRY

"The Age of Chivalry" is not gone. But a new kind of chivalry is emerging. In this new chivalry the lady is the young wife and the knight is her husband. This brave young knight really wins his lady but not with a sword nor in mental armor. He bears no weapons and wears no armor. He destroys no life. He shares in creating something imperishable.

Whether or not this chivalrous young knight shares with his lady in creation of a new life—or even preceding such creation—he has shared in the creation of something which will live on and on—a truly chivalrous relationship with his wife.

Now we may be so blinded and deafened by what we have seen and heard about the broken hearts which once bound some wife or husband as not to be aware of the many young married couples who are true knights and ladies.

Before Marriage Let us look attentively at some such couples that we know. There was romance and chivalry, of course, before their marriage, but this romance and chivalry have grown even though this growth may not always be apparent to us. This young knight remains a knight and this young lady is still a lady. His chivalry grows and her ladyship increases, because of each other.

Is this too optimistic? Of course not, you and I know some young married couples whom the foregoing correctly describes. The young husband from the beginning helped his wife a bit around the house. They had good times doing these chores together and, with these jobs out of the way, they had considerable time for fun together or with their friends.

As soon as the first baby was expected she and he together selected the physician who would take care of her and deliver the baby, and he went with her on her first visit to this doctor and as often thereafter as possible.

Good Times

At home he kept on helping her, and when she felt a bit indisposed he did more about the house. He and she continued to have good times together, to have their friends in and to go out among their friends, to places of recreation, to the market and to church. Often they went on long walks or hikes. They modified these activities only in terms of their physical comfort and wellbeing; and as she had good medical care and enjoyed a normal social life, she usually felt very well. (My bulletins, "A Baby Is Expected" and "The Baby Has Arrived," may be had in a stamped envelope sent me at 235 East 45th Street, New York, N. Y.)

Wife never occurred to this pregnant wife that she should not go everywhere as usual, even when she had advanced pretty far in pregnancy. Her chivalrous young husband never felt the least embarrassed to be seen out with her anywhere. Indeed, he always was very proud to have his cronies know of the happy expectation. He was truly a knight with his lovely lady. And when at last the baby arrived he was ready and eager to learn to help in the infant's physical care. Thus developed the ideal background for him to go with his wife as a happy companionable parent of this precious little child. Such is the modern age of chivalry.

At home he kept on helping her, and when she felt a bit indisposed he did more about the house. Washington Calling

New Hearing On R. F. C. Operations

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Senator J. William Fulbright of Arkansas intends shortly to start a new series of hearings into the operation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Fulbright suspects that the big government corporation, which began at the bottom of the depression by bailing out railroads in distress, is allowing its loan policy to be influenced by politics.

This new inquiry will take on added importance in the light of President Truman's request in his budget message for a considerable expansion in the powers of the RFC. It would become an important instrument in carrying out the administration's declared intention of assisting small and middle-size business.

Specifically, the president asked for a "substantial increase" in the time limit on loans. Under present law the maturity date cannot be more than 10 years. This is said to put a handicap on smaller businesses that need long-term capital and cannot obtain it from private banking institutions. The president also recommended "an addition to the funds available for business loans."

The forthcoming investigation also coincides with a decision taken belatedly by the RFC. It has turned down a request for still another loan from the Lustron corporation.

Lustron, manufacturing pre-fabricated houses, had asked for an additional $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 in connection with a plan of reorganization that the RFC did not agree to. The decision was taken because the directors of RFC were not convinced that the company could operate profitably.

But this comes after RFC has already advanced $37,500,000 to Lustron. The loans to Lustron have frequently been criticized with the charge that political influence played a part.

Loan Requested A former chairman of the RFC, John D. Goodloe, testified that Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman wrote a letter requesting that the loan be made. This was shortly before the RFC took action. Lustron hired several former congressmen and others who were believed to have power in the Washington influence market.

RFC directors explain that the Lustron loan was initiated under the war and postwar housing shortage. They say that such a loan would not be possible under present law.

Nevertheless this seems to me an excellent illustration of the perils and difficulties that clutter the road of good intentions. Lustron originally had the backing of men who were deeply and sincerely interested in breaking the housing bottleneck. The company proposed a new technique for the mass production of the pre-fab houses.

Not Close To Goal

But after many months of experimentation and $37,500,000 of government money it has not yet proved a practical or a profitable operation. The company never came close to its goal of 100 houses a day. An RFC director testifying last June said the company was making 15 houses a day and losing approximately a million dollars a month. A little later Lustron was granted a final loan of $2,000,000.

The ever-increasing growth of a few companies that tend more and more to dominate in industry after industry is a fact that no one can afford to ignore. This is the negation of private enterprise and competition about which we hear so much political oratory. By the giant corporation, by the negotiated price, by a variety of trade agreements written into state and federal law, the area of competition has been greatly narrowed.

Difficulty Begins

When it comes, however, to finding a correct solution to the difficulties begin. Certainly, it is not by magic of words that repeatedly intone the virtues of small business. Nor is there any magic inherent in the government lending power in itself.

One of the RFC loans of which Senator Fulbright has been critical is that to the Kaiser-Frazer corporation for $44,000,000. The further Henry Kaiser's project for bringing out a car in a lower-price range than any on the market today. But Fulbright felt that his committee should have been consulted before so sizable a loan was granted.

Government intervention is essential, both on the negative side of anti-trust action and on the positive side of aid to smaller business, if the surviving area of competition is to be saved. But it is important to get some definition and clarification and congressional hearings should contribute to the end. Aid to business must be on a realistic basis or suffer discredit and defeat.

And we're sick too about Miss Bergman... it still hasn't been decided whether her husband is mentally cruel enough to get custody of their daughter.

All in all... a sad weekend.

PATCHES Patches do not seem to be as plentiful as they used to be. When dad was a boy he always wore patches on the seat of his pants. Granddad has patches on the knees of his overalls. Nowadays people get patch tests on their skin. The doctor sticks a little patch of sticking plaster on your arm to find out what he wants to know about you. The County Tuberculosis Association wants everybody to have a patch test. It is free for the asking and is a very good thing of do. The doctors and nurses will tell you what it means. Maybe some day all of our big sanitarium will be made over into colleges—or something.

Great Game Of Politics

Drawing Nearer To The Brink

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. THE most disturbing thing about the President's $42,500,000,000 budget, with its estimated deficit of $5,500,000,000, is the state of mind it reveals. More than the staggering figures and the gigantic gap between receipts and expenditures, that constitutes the real national peril.

SO FAR as can be recalled, never before has the leader of a great nation exhibited such extraordinary complacency concerning his country's debt, deficits and the recognized dangers thereof. Never has any President so blithely ignored the fiscal facts or so completely disregarded the actual condition of the Federal financial structure. There are two things to be said about this, not in explanation, but in order better to understand the significance of Mr. Truman's position. One of these is that not in all our history has our financial situation been as unfavorable as it is today. Never has the debt been so high, the deficits so deep or the Government so close to bankruptcy.

THE other is that in tone as in content this budget message is in sharp contrast to any other which Mr. Truman has submitted—particularly does it contrast with that of 1949. In that year, as in previous ones, Mr. Truman expressed deep concern over the mounting debt and the recurring deficits. He insisted upon the vital importance of a balanced budget and strongly urged increased taxation in order to make the Government revenue at least equal its expenditures. He did not succeed in doing that last year. And the end-of-the-year deficit was shockingly large. He grossly underestimated his expenditures. Nevertheless, he went through the motions and no one questioned—or could question—the soundness of his budget position.

THIS time he completely reverses that position. Instead of proposing to balance the budget, he proposes—at the minimum—to spend $5,500,000,000 more than he will have to spend, thus compelling a huge borrowing of new money, the raising of interest charges and the further weakening of our financial foundations. He does not even propose to balance the budget in the near future. He makes a suggestion of a "moderate" increase in taxes, figuratively waves his hand at the $5,000,000,000 deficit and cheerfully talks about regaining national solvency by "expanding our economy". Of cutting down the huge costs of the Government, reducing the swollen Federal pay roll and eliminating the almost unbelievable waste he has a few perfunctory words, generally recognized as phony.

WHEN you consider the critical financial condition of the Government, when you consider the President's previous concern over the unbalanced budget and when you consider Mr. Truman's own private business record, this 1950 budget message is well-nigh incredible. It seems impossible he can have forgotten that his own little business in Kansas City went bankrupt by following exactly the same course of debt and deficit financing he is now proposing for the nation. It seems impossible he does not know that if any considerable part of his welfare program goes through Congress this year, the deficit will be far larger than $5,000,000,000 for 1950-1951 and even greater for 1951-1952. It seems impossible he should not realize that if that happens Federal finances will be wholly out of control and the crash, of which Senator Byrd has repeatedly warned, be unavoidable.

IT ISN'T as if there were not a way out. The admirable budget submitted by Senator Byrd would restore solvency and stability without crippling any vital Government function. So would the budget proposed a few days ago by the Committee for Economic Development. None of Mr. Truman's aides or advisers have so much as noticed either of these proposals both of which were completely in line with the way the President felt last year. Instead, they have taken him just as far in the other direction as he could. And, notwithstanding his own personal experience, he seems to like it.

THE only reasonable explanation offered is that the presidential political strategists and economists believe there is one more election in the spend, spend, spend policy. After that they just don't care. That is a harsh interpretation, but none other seems adequate. Under the circumstances, it is not surprising there should be mounting indignation in Congress and a growing determination to slice the President's $42,000,000,000 budget close to the $36,000,000,000 Byrd or the $38,000,000,000 budget of the Committee for Economic Development. However, let us not kid ourselves. That determination will not get anywhere unless supported by an aroused public sentiment. And it is extremely difficult to arouse or even interest the American people in anything as dull and undramatic as the budget. A considerable number of men have been trying to do that for sixteen years but with no great success. Now that we have been pushed almost to the brink, inertia still appears to envelop us. It is a pretty tragic performance. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

When I was a kid, Mother told me never to use the weather as a subject of conversation. Only people who didn't know anything else to talk about did that, she said.

So if Mother were alive today she wouldn't like this column at all. And if you agree with my mother that the weather is a dull subject, you'd better go on to something else.

I talked about the weather last week. But this happened since then, while my wife and I were spending the holidays in Virginia. In Richmond we went on a little sightseeing trip.

Among the sight was a handsome building put up by the government and equipped as a Weather Bureau. It had been raining earlier in the day, but now the sun was shining.

Our driver—whose father, he told us, had been a slave—shook his head and pointed at the building. "You know," he said, "something's gone all wrong with the weather."

"When the good Lord was in charge of it everything was all right."

"But since the government's taken it over you just can't trust it from one hour to the next."

Incidentally, at the convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, recently held in New York, an eminent meteorologist stated that, in spite of all the scientific progress in weather forecasting, a large percentage of the old-time adages and proverbs about the weather are pretty nearly reliable as scientific instruments. A collection of these proverbs had been submitted to a jury of three scientists, and out of 153 that were judged, $6.9 per cent were found to be generally true.

So, in case you have no reliable weather-forecasting equipment in your home, I herewith repeat some of the proverbs found to be reliable:

"Mackerel clouds in the sky—expect more wet than dry."

"Rainbow to the windward, foul all the day. Rainbow to the leeward, damp runs away."

"Evening red and morning grey, will help the traveler on his way."

"Moonlight nights have the heaviest frost."

"When the glass falls low, prepare for a blow, when it rises high, let all your kites fly."

"Rain before seven, lift before eleven."

"A high wind prevents frost."

But here are a few that the jury found to be false:

"When the moon lies on her back, she sucks the wet into her lap."

"The north wind doth blow, and we shall have snow."

But there is one proverb on which you can rely absolutely. "Whether it shall be cold or whether it's hot, we shall have weather, whether or not."

State Preparing For Battle Against Smog

By ED HAUCK
(N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Jan. 16.—(INS)—Pennsylvania's Health department today is waging the first phase of a scientific war to blot out the smog problem irritating many industrial areas of the state.

The main task of the Division of Air Pollution Control in the Bureau of Industrial Health is to survey the problem and to establish standards to safeguard community health.

The division was set up by the 1949 Legislature with a $100,000 appropriation.

Prepares for Attack

Since June, the Air Pollution Control Agency has been building up its offensive equipment for a full scale frontal attack.

"It's taken us some time to round out our personnel because we are determined to do a thorough and comprehensive job," said Dr. Joseph Shilen, director of the Bureau of Industrial Health.

Trained and skilled chemists, engineers and meteorologists are now in the field recording data at industrial plants. The Air Pollution Control Division is concentrating itself with everything discharged from smoke stacks.

Though black coal smoke dust particles is the most obvious irritant, Shilen pointed out that seemingly harmless white smoke may contain lethal toxic gases that endanger life and health.

Lack of Equipment

"Lack of sampling equipment held us up for some time but that arrived recently," Shilen reported. "We can't estimate the length of time needed to complete the work but it will take many months."

The mobile equipment includes laboratories, units to sample the atmosphere under any and all circumstances and special analytical machines. These scientific facilities will enable the field crew to evaluate specimens on the spot.

"We intend to quiz local doctors as to what type complaints they receive from patients that may hinge on noxious atmosphere," Shilen declared.

He said his department has received complaints from various parts of the state.

"Pennsylvania incidentally is the first state in the nation to undertake air pollution control," he reported.

Always a touchy subject in heavy industrial areas, adverse public opinion hit its zenith soon after a heavy clutching fog settled over Donora in October, 1948, choking off 19 lives.

Since then people throughout the state have been demanding some regulatory system to protect health.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

The dangers of an efficiency expert's attempting to introduce his speed-up devices into his own home are high-lighted in the Gilbreth's wonderfully funny book, "Cheaper by the Dozen." Pa Gilbreth got away with using two shaving brushes to lather his face, but came a cropper when he tried using two razors. He saved forty-four seconds, but took seven minutes putting plasters on the places where he had gashed himself.

The fact that there were twelve Gilbreth children sometimes confused Pa, as in the time when he spanked a neighbor's misbehaving moppet in the mistaken conviction it was his own. Still he was sorry there were "only" twelve! He'd look reproachfully at his wife and say "Never mind, Lillie. I know you did your best." The neighbors weren't so happy about the noisy Gilbreth brood. The lady next door came running to her husband one day to report that the Gilbreth home was on fire. "Thank God," he replied fervently. "Shall I call the fire department?" she persisted. "What's the matter, are you crazy?" he shouted, and dragged her away from the scene. But the fire went out by itself.

HOW SHOULD A MAN INTRODUCE HIMSELF

Question: How should a man introduce himself?

Answer: As John Blank, unless he has a title when he should say: Dr. Blank.

Question: How should a married woman announce herself over the telephone to neighbors and acquaintances who call her "Mrs."?

Answer: Mary Blank, even though the one to whom she is speaking calls her "Miss" or "Mrs."

To a domestic, she should refer to herself as "Mrs. Blank."

Question: What is the best form of acknowledging an introduction?

Answer: How do you do.

Question: Is it correct to mail wedding announcements several days after the wedding?

Answer: No. They should be mailed on the wedding day, after the ceremony.

Question: When an organist plays for a wedding, should he be given a fee or a gift? If a fee, how much? Also what of the soloist?

Answer: No doubt the organist and the soloist have regular fees which they charge for this service. Ask them what these fees are. If they are close friends of the bride and will do this for friendship sake, a gift, rather than a fee, should be given.

Question: I have received a wedding gift of colored linen table runner with doilies to match and would like to know the proper use of these.

Answer: They should be used to dress your table for either breakfast, luncheon or supper or even for a family dinner. Colored doilies with china in harmonizing colors are now very much in vogue and make attractive table decorations. A large white damask cloth is always in better taste for dinner.

Drive Slow—Children Move Fast!

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

Make-Believe Champions

Many a lonely and imaginative child creates friends for himself. Usually these "friends" are children of his own age. But they may be fairies, gnomes or even animals. Three-year-old David, for instance has a cat that is very real to him though no one else has ever seen her. He calls her in his arms, punishes her when she needs it and has a special place for her to sleep. One of the first things he does on coming home when he has been away for a while is to talk and play with her.

The fact that David is rather shy with his playmates, most of whom are older than he, may have played a part in the creation of the make-believe cat. His parents, realizing this, are trying to help him be more at home with the other boys and girls. But wisely, they don't make fun of his beloved cat nor forbid him to talk about her or romp with her.

If your youngster has such a companion, don't get disturbed about it. There's no danger involved though, like David's parents, you may want to help him find more fun and pleasure in play with other children. Inviting in carefully selected ones whom your child likes is one method of helping him.

Bonus Application
Blanks Delayed

Fail To Arrive This Morning As Expected; Should Come Sometime Today

Application blanks for the state bonus failed to arrive this morning at the various spots where they are to be distributed.

As a result, telephones in the office of the Veterans' director in the court house, American Red Cross, the Army Recruiting office, Legion and VFW Posts were swamped with callers and telephone calls from veterans.

A Lewis Conn, director of Veterans' Affairs called Major General Frank A. Weber, Adjutant-General of the State this morning and asked when the application forms could be expected.

General Weber said the forms had been shipped from Harrisburg Sunday by American Railway Express and should be in New Castle sometime today.

Couples adjoining Lawrence reported the same situation today, their forms had not arrived and they were being swamped with telephone and personal calls by veterans.

Flood Warning
At Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 16.—(INS)—Another flood warning was issued throughout the Cincinnati district today as the Ohio river water level neared 51 feet, just one foot shy of flood stage.

The river reached 50.7 feet this morning and was continuing to rise at a rate of from .15 to .2 feet per hour.

The Cincinnati Weather bureau predicted the river will pass flood stage sometime this afternoon if it continues its present rate.

Although no more rain is expected either today or tomorrow, Weather Bureau officials said they are not yet able to predict a river crest. A crest prediction, they said would be impossible until it is learned how much rain fell upriver last night and early today.

Make Threat To Curtail Power
In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 16.—(INS)—Duquesne Light company threatened an electric power curtailment in the Pittsburgh district today unless work is resumed at the company's two soft coal mines.

P. H. McCance, president of the firm, said a plan is being studied to maintain essential service for residences, hospitals, pumping stations and police and fire protection.

He claimed only a 13-day supply of coal remained at three power stations. McCance said curtailment of steam heating service to downtown Pittsburgh seemed imminent because of low coal supplies.

Louis E. Graham To Run For Re-Election

Congressman Announces His Candidacy For Re-Election On Republican Ticket

LOUIS E. GRAHAM

To the citizens of the 25th Congressional district:

In announcing my candidacy for re-election to the House of Representatives for the 82nd Congress on the Republican ticket, I desire to make the following statement of my position.

As a Republican I have supported, in the past, the principles and platform of the Party and I intend to do so in the future. I am opposed to the so-called Welfare State in the majority of its implications.

During the First Session of the 81st Congress I did not miss a roll call and I voted on every measure submitted to us for decision. This district was accordingly adequately represented.

I AM OPPOSED to the Brannan Plan; Compulsory Health Insurance; the Increase of Taxes; the outright repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act; increasing the National Debt; the enlargement of the Federal Bureaucracy; and the growth and centralization of Federal Power and Control.

I HAVE SUPPORTED every direct measure of benefit to the Veterans.

Likewise I have upheld the Hoover Commission in all of its recommendations and will do so in the future. I have supported all legislation benefiting Federal Employees, especially the Postal Workers.

I have voted to abolish the Poll Tax; for Anti-lynching measures and the enlargement of Social Security providing for wider coverage and increased benefits.

Also I voted to increase the Minimum Wage.

I have consistently supported the Republican leadership in the House of Representatives on all major issues.

Since taking office I have rendered special services, over and above the legislative duties, to literally thousands of individuals and groups in our district who have appealed to me for assistance in connection with Veterans' cases, Immigration and Naturalization cases, Displaced Persons, Enlisted Men and Officers in the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps; Increased Postal Service and problems with the Bureau of Internal Revenue; in securing information from the Bureau of the Census; cases before the Railroad Retirement Board; cooperated with farmers and sportsmen in securing fish for restocking ponds and streams; and furnished information and printed material whenever available, to all who have requested it. In fact, we have made contact with practically every Bureau and Agency of the Federal Government in behalf of our constituents.

As a Member of the Committee on the Judiciary I have advanced to the position of third ranking member on our side, and at present I am the ranking Republican Member of Sub-Committee No. 1.

I believe in the American way of life, of free enterprise, private initiative, and the right of all people to live free and unregulated lives.

I feel that the Budget should be balanced and that we should live within our National Income in Peacetime. I think deficit spending should end, particularly in view of our staggering National Debt.

In thus appealing for your aid and support, I do so on the basis of my Experience, Service, and the Efficiency of our office which is always open for the transaction of business, and the handling of all matters of interest to the citizens of our District.

I will deeply appreciate your help and support at the Primaries on May 16, 1950.

LOUIS E. GRAHAM,
Member of Congress.

Bonus Applications
Available In State

More Than 2,675,000 Applications Distributed Throughout State Over Weekend

HARRISBURG, Jan. 16.—(INS)—Applications for the Pennsylvania soldiers' bonus are available today throughout Pennsylvania.

More than 2,675,000 forms were distributed over the weekend, according to State Adj. Gen. F. A. Weber.

Veterans of World War II whether civilians or still in service, will use form one, Weber said. Form two is to be used by relatives of deceased veterans or those of ex-servicemen confined to mental hospitals.

Forms may be secured from armories, Red Cross offices, state police sub-station, state highway district offices, regional headquarters of the Veterans Administration, office of the State Employment Service, Veterans Posts, colleges and universities and all military installations.

Payments, expected to be underway by late spring, will be based on $15 a month for overseas service and $10 a month for domestic duty up to a maximum of $500. Next-of-kin of deceased veterans will be eligible to the maximum grant.

The state is pushing a $375,000, 000 bond issue to underwrite the payments. The electorate authorized a $500,000,000 bond issue for the bonus.

GIRL SCOUTS

Troop 26
Senior Girl Scout Troop 26 began the New Year by giving two baskets of food to a needy New Castle family.

At a recent meeting, two representatives to the Senior Planning board were elected. The girls, Phyllis Barnes and Nancy Douthitt, attended their first session on January 12.

Plans were completed for an informal party to be held January 16 in honor of the troop's first birthday. The meeting was closed with the singing of taps.

GIRLS SEND FALSE ALARM

City firemen were called to the corner of Lyndal and Belmont streets at 5:35 p. m. Sunday by an alarm from box 511. Fire Chief H. F. Steinbrink was informed that some girls who had been playing basketball at that intersection were seen running away from the scene, and they are believed to have been responsible. No fire was found in the vicinity.

Court House

Dog Owners Jam
Treasury OfficeCounty Treasurer's Office
"Go To The Dogs" On Saturday MorningOTHER EVENTS
IN COURT HOUSE

Dog days were in full bloom in the country treasurer's office Friday and Saturday with Saturday morning the peak.

Dog owners hurrying to get in under the January 15 deadline crowded the office and two lines ran back the hall to the front door.

On Friday the treasurer's force sold 600 licenses and on Saturday morning about that many more. At the close of business Saturday slightly over 2,500 dog tags had been issued, which is about 20 percent of the number of dogs in the county.

Wednesday, January 18, County Treasurer Don I. Neal will be in the Boro hall in Ellwood City as a convenience to dog owners in Ellwood City and the surrounding townships.

Dog Enforcement Agent McClure expects to begin arresting dog owners who have not licensed their dogs shortly.

HONORED AT BUCKNELL

Harvey B. Bush, Jr., son of the County Commissioner, Harvey B. Bush, has been accorded another honor at Bucknell University. He has been named, along with seven others, to the Omicron Delta Kappa, fraternity, a national men's leadership honorary fraternity.

Only those men are "tapped" for O. D. K. who have shown the qualities of character, scholarship, intelligence, service, leadership, in campus life, fellowship and conservation to democratic ideals.

Mr. Bush is president of the junior class, a member of Phi Gamma Delta, a member of the Glee club and a member of the basketball squad.

TWO VERDICTS

Two verdicts arising out of one case were taken at the close of the term of civil court. In the case of Kenneth Alexander, administrator in the estate of Clark Alexander, against L. H. Powell and the Manufacturers' Light and Heat Company, a verdict for the death of Clark Alexander was rendered against L. H. Powell in the amount of $635.50 and a "survival" verdict for the plaintiff against L. H. Powell for $800. No verdict was returned against the Manufacturers' Light and Heat Company.

The case was one in which Clark Alexander died from gas fumes. The plaintiff claimed a gas heater was improperly installed.

TWO ORDERS

Two orders in equity suits have been handed down by the court. The first is the case of Philip McQuiston and Edna McQuiston against Sylvester Matuszewski.

This was a case where Matuszewski secured coal leases from the plaintiffs proved they had been misinformed in the representations of Matuszewski and the order directs him to return the lease.

The second case was that of John W. Carpenter and Helen M. Carpenter against John F. and Charles J. Marietta and Michael Schmitzki. This case has been in litigation for about three years.

It arose out of a service station owned by the Carpenters which was leased to the defendants. The price was to be $13,000, which included stock and personal belongings and a rental of $250 per month, dating from July 18, 1946, for five years.

Later the defendants claimed the Carpenters had made an agreement with an oil company, that some of the personal belongings they did not own.

The defendants first asked the lease be voided. The Carpenters then got a judgement for $3,191.20 for back rent in July, 1948. The defendants tried to open judgement, which was refused. They then sued the Carpenters and got a verdict of $7,116.95.

The court order stays execution until a further order of the court.

Highland Students
Display Toy Shop

Friday the thirteenth proved to be a lucky Friday for boys and girls of the Highland school, as Mrs. Mary Ann Hartman, auditorium and speech teacher, opened a toy shop in the auditorium room.

Each child brought his most favored toy. Boys and girls of the sixth grade were the shop keepers and arranged the entire display, supervised by Mrs. Hartman. Toys were grouped by classes, making thirteen little toy shops in one.

The favorite girl toy was a doll, with 247 dolls in all. Dolls of thirteen nationalities, eighteen varieties, and four colors were represented.

Favorite boy toys were pieces of machinery, trucks and tractors, engines, electric cars and shovels. Dana Klenovic of the first grade had the most popular toy for small children, it being a negro doll dressed as a negro aristocrat. Bob Weddington of the sixth grade had the popular toy for larger children, with a miniature boxing match set.

Each class spent one class period in the toy shop, entering with sighs of "gee" and "oh" and a chorus of groans as the bell sounded to leave for another class.

Everyone thoroughly enjoyed the toy exhibition. Mrs. Hartman, a graduate of Westminster last June, has given the children of Highland school many new experiences and opportunities in science and auditorium classes. Mrs. Hartman was assisted by Miss Eila Atwell and Miss Jeanne Gilson.

MUSTEROLE

Around Hollywood

By FRANK NEILL
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 16.—Miss June Havoc, wearing a pink sweater, asked softly:

"Do you mind if I turn down the lights?"

"No," I said. "No, indeed, thank you."

So Miss Havoc lowered her 116-pounds of well-proportioned soft-chitrite into the depths of a sofa divan. She sighed, a real dramatic sigh for a gal who used to be known as "Miss Bumps" on the burlesque boards, then she said:

"It is my eyes, you know. The light hurts them. I have klieg eyes."

Very Pretty Eyes

Whatever kind of eyes they were, they certainly were the prettiest shade of blue this side of the mid-Pacific.

June, in January or any other month, plays havoc every time she performs in a Broadway or Hollywood scene. She is a delightful dynamo in private life, too.

Before our eyes got accustomed to the dim room, June wound up and let go with the following bit of diversified data:

She doesn't smoke. She takes long hikes every day at dawn with her three dogs. She also owns 28 birds and five cats. She goes to movies four times a week. She makes most of her own clothes. She likes good wine, small dinners, sharp conversation and splurges on shoes.

Dad Is Newspaperman

The blonde was born in Seattle, Wash. Her dad, Jack Hovick, was a newspaperman who came to the USA from Oslo, Norway.

"I've been known as a comedian all my life," June said, "but more than anything else I want to be known as a real dramatic actress."

"I think that my last two pictures, 'The Story of Molly X' and 'The Iron Cage' prove that I can handle dramatic roles. From now on I plan to concentrate on heavy acting. Yep, June has finally arrived."

The late and great Damon Runyon, who always was getting news beats, wrote so long ago as 1946 that June Havoc was "The finest dramatic actress since Jeanne Eagels". It simply took Hollywood five years to discover the fact.

June admitted:

"I want to enjoy the dignity of being an actress. I doubt if I'll ever do any more song-and-dance and torso-tossing parts."

He's the man whose "yes" helped to put an ambitious boy through medical school.

Another occasion, his friendly "yes" started a man in business and today that man's business is a growing, paying proposition.

And then there was the time his "yes" enabled a worried family to get from under a stack of unpaid bills and his friendly advice put that family's budget on a sound, secure basis.

This man whose "yes" has brought peace of mind to thousands of people by helping them get a fresh start is the manager of the Personal Finance Co. office in this city.

Warning To Beware Phony Census Takers

By WILLIAM KERWIN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Beware of phony census takers!

The government warned housewives and police officials today to be on the alert for fake census
men. It said no legitimate enumerator would object to a careful check of his credentials.

Census Bureau officials declared that criminal impostors, operating as population enumerators, may try to enter a home to rob or intimidate a person into buying some kind of merchandise.

Experience in the past indicates that the fakers have not been too numerous but the bureau is taking no chances.

To Plan Safeguards

In the near future, the bureau's 450 district census supervisors will arrange conferences with mayors and police chiefs in local areas all over the nation to work out safeguards against the problem.

Mayors will be asked to issue proclamations urging residents to cooperate fully with the government in obtaining facts and figures on American life.

At the same time, they will repeat the bureau's warning of caution in greeting visitors.

Police chiefs will urge housewives to report any persons claiming to be census takers who fail to show their official credentials as enumerators of the census.

All official census takers will carry with them an identification card bearing the signature of the enumerators and identifying him as an employee of the bureau. Besides this, they will also have official census forms containing the population figures.

Strict Federal Penalties
Impostors, the bureau declared, are subject to strict federal penalties for impersonating government officials.

In addition, officials reminded the public that enumerators are subject to loss of their jobs if they combine their work with other activities such as soliciting donations, selling house-to-house or distributing advertising material.

Authorities will urge housewives who suspect the presence of an impostor to notify police headquarters immediately and give a description of the individual.

Officials said they hope that widespread publicity to his situation will reduce the number of impostor cases.

Latest Picture Of President Truman And Members Of Cabinet In Session

Decision On Soft Drink Tax

Act As Whole Is Declared Constitutional: One Provision Ruled Out

HARRISBURG, Jan. 16.—(INS)—
The Dauphin county common pleas court today dismissed a bottlers' suit against Pennsylvania's soft drink tax and declared in an adjudication that the tax is constitutional.

Judge J. Paul Rupp announced a combined adjudication in complaints filed by franchised representatives of Coca-Cola, Pepsi-
Cola and syrup manufacturers.

The levy, enacted in 1947, was designed to yield $27,000,000 a biennium.

The complaints sought to restrain enforcement of the so-called "soft drink tax law" on grounds of unconstitutionality.

The court declared the act as a whole to be constitutional.

However, one section was held unconstitutional. This section requires out-of-state syrup manufacturers and soft drink bottlers to purchase tax stamps or crowns from the Department of Revenue and to affix them to containers to be sold, delivered, or transported for delivery to Pennsylvania.

The court declared this section unconstitutional on the ground that it constituted the out-of-state manufacturer or bottler a taxpayer.

Out-of-state syrup manufacturers and bottlers thus are relieved of payment of the tax.

The constitutionality of the remainder of the act is not affected, the court said.

The adjudication also held that concentrated syrups which cannot be used in making non-bottled soft drinks do not fall within the definition of syrup contained in the act and therefore are not taxable.

A California legislative committee disclosed that $30 million in unemployment benefits was paid to fraudulent recipients in that state last year.

Approve Plan To Exchange Flags

MEXICO CITY.—(INS)—Proposals to exchange Mexican flags captured by U. S. troops during the Mexican war for U. S. flags taken by Mexicans has received the approval of Mexico's ministry of defense.

The only obstacle to the interchange now is the approval of the U. S. House of Representatives.
The Senate already has passed the necessary authorization, and the Mexican authorization is in full accord.

President Truman is expected to set date on which the exchange will take place.

The suggestion that the flags be returned to their home countries was initiated here by Colonel Roscoe B. Gaither, prominent American attorney, through the local American Legion post.

It is hoped Washington's birthday, February 22, will be slated as the day for the ceremonies.

President Asks Rubber Program

(BULLETIN)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—(INS)—President Truman asked congress today for a ten-year synthetic rubber program to safeguard the national security in event of another war.
The chief executive recommended that government-owned synthetic rubber plants be sold to private industry "as soon as possible". But he said that such disposal should be made only under conditions guaranteeing the nation's vital defense requirements.
He said in a special message to congress that the government never again should permit a recurrence of the critical rubber shortage in which the U. S. found itself when the Japanese struck Pearl Harbor and shut off the world's chief supply of natural rubber in the far east.

(BULLETIN)
BOSTON, Jan. 16.—(INS)—A methodical bandit trio masked with paper bags, held up the general offices of the Hotel Statler in Boston today and got away with an estimated $30,000 in weekend receipts.
Special police officer Frank L. McDonald was slugged over the head with a gun knocked to the floor by the bandits.
Five other employees were menaced by guns while more than 30 girl employees in an adjoining office waited to report for work, unaware of the holdup.

CRACK DOWN ON SLOTS
CARLISLE, Pa., Jan. 16.—(INS)—Cumberland county authorities today ordered a crackdown on slot machines.

What's Going On Around Here?

ALLENTOWN, PENNA.—What's going on here? Seeking safety under a chair this pedigreed cocker spaniel seems a bit mixed-up after a coal-gas range exploded almost in his face. Firemen found him still under the chair when they entered the house and still confused.

HOT, FIERY GAS

Stomach Like a Furnace

A New Castle man said recently that his stomach used to burn like a "gas factory." That is, when he ate a meal it seemed to turn right into hot gas. He was always bloated, had gas pains daily. But now this man says he is FREE of STOMACH GAS and he says the change is due to taking CERTA-VIN. His meals agree with him.

CERTA-VIN is a new formula. Taken before meals it works with your food, expels the gas, and thus you get the fullest good out of your meals. It contains Ten Great Herbs, plus vitamin B and Iron. Besides relieving gas, it also enriches the blood (with iron) and makes stronger nerves (with vitamin B). Miserable people soon feel better all over. So don't go on suffering! Get CERTA-VIN—at any drug store in New Castle, or nearby towns.

Elderly Watchman Writes Hit Song

Seventy-Five-Year-Old Ex-Vaudeville Star Writes 'Hop-Scotch Polka'

LONDON—(INS)—A 75-year-old watchman named Billy Whitlock, once a $300-a-week vaudeville star, is the composer of the song hit "The Hop-Scotch Polka". Billy suddenly jumped into the front rank of dollar earners because a very old tinny-voiced phonograph record was played as a joke at a New York night club. Guy Lombardo heard the record and decided it was a winner. It was recorded again, and immediately caught on.

The phonograph company called London to see if the original singer, Billy Whitlock, was still alive.

"It's just like a dream," old Bill Whitlock said. "There I was just pottering along, getting by as well as I could on any job that was offered, and here I am with my pockets stuffed with contracts."

The records of his song, a rollicking old-fashioned polka, are selling at a rate of 15,000 a week in the United States.

"Looking on the pessimistic side," one of Billy's new agents said, he'll be worth $9,000 in the next few months. He can't help it. The number was just a natural hit.

Billy, bald, well-built with finely manicured hands, sat in a cheap London lodging house and said:

"It's wonderful to feel that I'm back in the swing of things—seeing publishers, making records, talking 'shop' and meeting people again."

Since the movies killed his vaudeville act, Billy has tried many ways of making a living. He has been a sailor, skating-rink instructor, phonograph-recording mechanic, cinema operator, grocer, tobacconist, orchestrator, arranger, truck driver and night watchman.

Finds Marines

Real Tough Outfit

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—Marines are reputed to be one of the toughest branches of the service, and John Wayne can vouch for that.

In his film career, Wayne has played a member of every branch of the armed forces. He's been in the cavalry, infantry, air force and navy. In none of these has he been ranked lower than a lieutenant.

All that "experience" didn't count, though, when he was drafted for his role in Republic's "Sands of Iwo Jima".

All he could get were sergeant stripes.

Public Library Day To Be Tuesday

Ben Franklin's Birthday, Founder
Of Circulating Library, Chosen
By Governor Duff

Governor Duff has proclaimed a Pennsylvania Public Library Day, choosing Benjamin Franklin's birthday, January 17th, 1950 as the date.

Franklin's birthday was chosen because of his establishment in 1731 of the first circulating library in the English-speaking countries, actually the first public library in the world. The proclamation also pays tribute to Andrew Carnegie whose desire to "promote education beyond schooling" led him to finance more than 2,500 library buildings.

This observance will emphasize the services rendered the people of the commonwealth by its 350 libraries and the leadership given by the Pennsylvania Library Association during the past fifty years. The local library will lend

Opinion On City Pension Measure Given By White

Changes Must Be Made By State Legislature He Informs Council

D. O. DAVIES MAKES COMMENT ON ISSUE

When council convened Monday in council session in City hall, solons received from Solicitor Robert White an opinion in which he stated that the city ordinance calling for pensions for elected officials and employees is legal, and conforms to an act of State legislature.

He wrote that the council in passing the ordinance "simply acts for the state government, and the council cannot do anything that it has not been authorized to do by the legislature."

Mr. White's opinion said that an act of 1945 section two reads:

"All cities of the Third class may create a retirement system for officers and employees of said cities, whether or not such officers and employees are protected by pensions authorized by the laws of this commonwealth, and in force at the time of passage of this act, in the manner, under the conditions, and subject to the qualifications, following:

By this, Mr. White explained the city already had police and firemen pensions established, under another State act and they could be included in the provisions of the 1945 act.

Would Violate Act

"It is my opinion, that an ordinance which would undertake to establish a retirement system, which did not include elected officers, would violate the express provisions of the Act of Assembly, authorizing the creation of such a system," the opinion read.

Mr. White's opinion further read:

1.—To eliminate elected officials the only way it can be done is to have the legislature do it.

2.—To anyone, who seriously questions the validity of the Act of 1945, White recommended that the persons take the question to the courts.

Following the reading of the opinion, council, by motion of Mr. Richard I. Davis, voted to file the opinion.

Davies Speaks

D. O. Davies, former councilman, and one who helped to adopt the pension ordinance addressed council, stating:

"I was interested in the pension bill. I was one of its makers. I never took part in passing any bill which was illegal.

"There are various stories as to why I refused to accept a pension, and took my name off the pension list.

"I know Mr. (Sherman) Levine, 'harped' about it, as did several

'councilmen' who said they would 'do away with it (the pension bill). 'I have nothing to be 'a-scared' of. I know I was entitled, morally, and legally, to its provisions. 'Everyone knows a councilman several years ago earned less than a laborer's pay.

"I believe every man in the country is entitled to a pension, and the day will come when they will receive it.

"I believe Mr. Levine, and those who spoke against the pension bill, did, not with their heart, but only to get votes," said Mr. Davies.

"I agree with Mr. Davies," said Mayor Haven. "There is nothing wrong with pensions. I believe everyone is entitled to a pension."

He declared lack of pension is one reason why public institutions are being filled with men over 50 years of age.

"If I thought there was anything wrong with the Pension bill, I would have had no part in it," the mayor concluded.

Following councilmanic meeting, a News reporter asked Councilman E. Gene Schweinberg, who opposed pensions for elected officials:

"Do you have any comment to make regarding the opinion?"

"No comment," he replied.

"Do you intend to carry the case to court?"

"I want to do a little studying about that," he replied.

Memorial Held By City Firemen

Memory Of Deceased Honored At Services In First U. P. Church Sunday Evening

LARGE NUMBER IN ATTENDANCE

In the neighborhood of 100 city firemen, members of the paid and volunteer departments, and families of those who have passed on in recent years were present for the annual memorial service which was held in the First U. P. church Sunday evening.

The pastor, Rev. Robert H. Mayo delivered a sermon appropriate to the occasion, extolling the firemen for their unselfish devotion to duty, when the emergency confronted them.

Five Added To Roll

In addition to the 251 members who had died between the years of 1873 and 1950, five were added to the roll during the past year, and special tribute was paid to their memory. They were: George Henderson, David Thomas, William Crane, Jacob Kahner and Charles Brown.

Special music was rendered during the evening by the choir and congregation, under the leadership of the choir director, David W. Rees, concluding with the Firemen's Memorial Hymn, after which the roll of names was called, and there was silent prayer for them.

The service was a most impressive one, and the church was well filled with friends of the firemen.

Suggested Financing Plans For New School

In the past few weeks, interest in the possibility of replacing the Lincoln-Garfield school has appeared. A recent article described the condition of the school and persons interested in education have agreed the picture painted was a true one.

The idea of replacing Lincoln-Garfield school with a new building is not new. For the past decade it has been apparent that the building had outlived its usefulness. The question of finances was probably the one which slowed consideration of the idea.

Site and Money
If it is agreed that the Lincoln-Garfield building should be replaced—and thus far there has been no one content seriously that it shouldn't—there are two questions to decide: First, the finances, and secondly, the site.

The present building fronts on Long avenue and Reynolds street. Long avenue is a heavily trafficked street and most of the youngsters have to cross Long avenue to get to the school. Reynolds street is busy but nothing to compare with Long.

Where to locate a new building, if any action were taken, is a matter for the nine members of the New Castle school board. This district of the city is closely built up and the selection of a site would require some serious consideration.

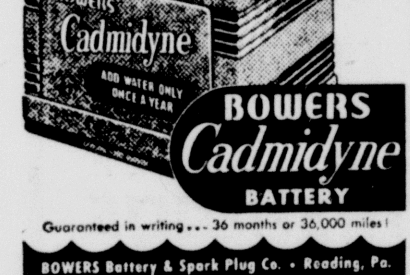

Coming to the question of finances it is asked "Where do we get the money?"

There are two possibilities, one that the New Castle school district bond itself for sufficient money to build and equip a new school. Secondly, the possibility of utilizing the provisions of the State Public School Building Authority.

Bonding Potential

The bonding potential of the New Castle school district presently is about $650,000. That is, the board of school directors can issue bonds up to this amount without any other action than its own. The bonding power of a district is limited to two per cent of the assessed valuation of the city. Presently the bonded indebtedness is $834,000 of which more than half was authorized by a vote of the people and hence is not within the two per cent provision.

"Assignment; America"

By INEZ ROBB

(Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.)
(Distributed By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 16.—To this charmed observer of the national political scene, it is obvious that one of the most important aspects of present bi-partisan policy has been little publicized.

This is the care of feeding of Sen. Robert Alphonso Taft, (R) Ohio. If possible, the Democrats are even more solicitous in this cause than the Republicans.

The bipartisan foreign policy may get conked on the head at any moment, but this bipartisan domestic policy is a lovely thing to see.

In a manner of speaking, a lot of Republicans can't live with the senator, but, in turn, they all know damn well they can't live without him!

Taft's Position Unique
An authentic elder statesman, who did not wish to be quoted, assured me that Sen. Taft's indispensability to both parties is unique in his, the E. S.'s, long experience of Washington and Congress.

"If anything should happen to the senator, and God forbid!" the E. S. added piously, "the Democrats would lose the straw man they must beat at regular intervals, and the Republicans would lose the hair shirt that gives them stature, dignity and that aura of martyrdom so appealing in an opposition party."

This sage is convinced that the Democrats, far from trying to jerk the rug out from under Sen. Taft in the Ohio senatorial election next November, will, if necessary, infiltrate the Republican party with some sharp political boys who will run Mr. Taft's campaign to a victorious conclusion.

The Demos can afford to lose Maine and Vermont but not Taft, as this gentleman put it.

I first became aware of this Democrat solicitude for the Republican senator at a brace of Washington parties just past. At first I thought it was merely an optical illusion that the Democrats view with the Republicans in plying Mr. Taft with attention and vittles.

Such Indeed the Case
But on closer observation, it developed that such was indeed the case. Furthermore, Mr. Taft is a tough man to ply. While the Democrats pressed bourbon and the Republicans scotch on the senator, Mr. Taft manfully fought his own way to the buffet table and asked for coffee.

Always a man of independent action, the Ohio senator is not one to let other persons, in an excess of politeness, select his food for him.

I have always felt that a buffet table is an acid test of character. As becomes an conservative, he eyed with wary suspicion the cauliflower flowerlets, the carrots and assorted green groceries ready to be dunked in a pale pink mayonnaise.

The senator passed on to survey a cheese mixture with which he had obviously had no previous experience. This, too, he passed up. Then his face seemed to light as he spied two familiar items of fodder, thin slices of rye bread and baked ham.

Taft carefully put his cup of coffee on the buffet table while he made himself a ham on rye. This, obviously, was staple stuff a man could trust and not in a fly-by-night class with olives stuffed with almonds or broiled mushrooms.

rooms impaled on toothpicks, anchored in a grapefruit.
The Democrats and Republicans, watching the senator eagerly, sighed contentedly. He ate with appetite, his color was good and he gave every appearance of a guy who expects to be around for a long time.

Broadway Clowns Delight Fans With Clever Antics

The famous Broadway Clowns of New York City basketball team lived up to all advance press notices, at the Arena Sunday afternoon before around 800 fans, putting on a very satisfying exhibition and handing the Morella All-Stars a 63 to 59 defeat.

It was a clever two-hour show, with the fans getting a big kick out of the manner in which the Clowns handled the ball. It was without a doubt the best colored team to play here in years.

Not only were the Clowns real buffoons but basketball players as well. The Morellas tried hard, but lacked the experience of the colored hoopers.

Benefit For Pitzer

The game was a benefit for the injured Francis Pitzer, and Frank "Fats" Morella, sponsor of the game, is to be congratulated for bringing the caliber of team here the Clowns turned out to be. Basketball of this type is a credit to the city.

The Clowns led in every period, 15 to 8, 37 to 16 and 52 to 39. They did most of their clowning in the final period, after getting a satisfactory lead.

Tanner High Man

Charles "Chuck" Tanner, the baseball star, was the high scorer in the game, with 23 points and playing a fine hard fought game throughout. Dick Hamilton with 13 points was next high scorer for the Morellas, who used 11 players.

McNellie with 17 points led the Clowns, while Curtis, Davis and Crielow each had 10. The Clowns were dead shot artists.

The inimitable King Tut on several acts that had the fans in stitches. These two boys are past masters at pantomime and comedy. Taylor is a very accomplished juggler of Indian clubs and balls.

Swell Show

Quite a nice sum was realized for Pitzer through the generosity of Mr. Morella and the fans. It was a swell show and the fans filed out of the Arena around 6:30 p.m. clock satisfied that they had seen something really worth while.

ON TO SUMTER

"Get the old gray suit out and pressed. Tell Daisy Mae Winthrop that Ah'll be seeing her shortly after Jeff Davis' birthday. If you all see any of Charles Justice's kin, and I have driven off to wah in his Cadillac convertible. Weah goin' to prove that we abide by the sanity code until they change it and make it really sane."

Thus the southern institutions of higher learning and higher "pay scales" for their athletes are preparing to wage a Civil War that may have as much effect on collegiate football as the firing on Fort Sumter did on the state of the union.

However, let us not be led into thinking that the stadiums south of the Mason-Dixon need any bigger and better football players than the stadiums north of the Mason-Dixon. The cause of good football and more greenbacks in the midwest and far west, for example.

The Citadel, Virginia, VPI, and VMI have openly admitted that they are violators of the NCAA sanity code. Now the south, southeast and southwest are massed solidly behind them. Which means that with or without a General Lee, the two-thirds majority necessary to expel the violators was missing when the voting took place at the NCAA convention in New York.

There are three approaches to intercollegiate athletics from the standpoint of finances.

One, of course, is the forthright stand taken by the University of Chicago when it deserted the big time. This is absolutely honest. Simply don't play college football. However, this isn't entirely desirable.

The second is honest dishonesty, which means out-right proselytizing and subsidization of football players without hypocrisy and with only one end in mind to win football games.

The third is the undercover proselytizing and subsidization with a holier-than-thou attitude, but still in pursuit of those victories which makes the wheels go round in the head of the alumnus.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association has sought for two years to prove that honesty can be comparative, or, putting it another way, you're honest until caught.

The results of the NCAA efforts have been mostly nil. If its present course of action is continued, more chaos will result.

Our opinion is that most of the bigger schools around the country belong in the last of the three categories and have little or no right to expel the self-confessed southerners.

Maybe the sanity code should go altogether. At least it should be changed so that it would be workable.

An athlete deserves his room, board and tuition if he can keep up with his studies and practice three or four hours on the gridiron every afternoon beside helping to fill the stadium with greenback backers every Saturday.

The high salary, trips for high school boys and "incidental expenses" bank account is a practice that should not be allowed. However, the impractical and now unenforceable sanity code has encouraged all of these practices to continue—but under ground.

If the problem could be worked out where it was fair to everyone and two-thirds of the schools thought that they could honestly abide by it, the hue and cry would disappear. All concerned would be better off.

"Get out the Confederate flag, son. We're going to support these Southern schools until we're satisfied that all offenders will be brought before the board, or the NCAA adopts a sanity code that will not drive us all insane and wreck college football."

Frankie Filchock was voted the outstanding male athlete in Canada for 1949 for leading the Montreal Alouettes to that city's first national football title in 18 years.

New Castle Meets League Leaders In Tuesday Tiff

League leading Sharon High basketball team pays the New Castle High a visit Tuesday night at Washington High gym. The Tigers are sporting a 3 and 0 record in Section 3 competition and share top place with Farrell. Rated as a top contender in pre-season speculation, stock in the Pete Colodi five was boosted by the opening win over Ambridge, 52 to 49. Sharon then whipped Beaver Falls 39-25 and edged Aliquippa, 45-40.

Reed Doubtful Starter
Underdog New Castle's chances of pulling an upset will be determined by the condition of Don Reed's left eye. The high scoring center was wounded just above the optic in a collision with Rich Billingslea of Aliquippa on Friday night. Stitches were required and Reed will have the doctor's permission to play if the stitches are ready to come out before Tuesday night.

The junior varsity action will get underway at 7 o'clock with the main game to follow.

Grapplers Weigh Almost One Ton

Eight Wrestlers Who Mat Here Next Friday Weigh 1,795 Pounds

When wrestlers exhibit their powerful grips Friday night in The Arena they will have a combined weight of 1,795 pounds. There will be eight grapplers on the card in three matches, one a 60-minute or one fall match, another a Tag melee, and a third, a 30-minute or one fall match.

Here are their weights:
Ivan Rasputin, the Mad Russian, 260, vs Cyclone Anaya, of Mexico, 210.

Joe Montana, 215, and Bull Montana, 220, (who may be replaced by a substitute) vs Salvatore, the Great Balbo, Massachusetts, 210, and the Great Mephisto, Ohio, 215.

Jack Kennedy, Texas, 225, vs Joe Corbett, Massachusetts, 230.

After learning of the weights voted by the wrestlers, it is small wonder that some of the floor boards in The Arena ring were broken during the last matches when one human slammed another human upon the floor.

It is also amazing that the ropes, while strongly braced, hold up when the wrestlers, all more than 200 pounds, run pell-mell against them or are thrown head-long against the hemp.

The Jefferson A. C., telephone 9025, is promoting the coming exhibitions.

RIFLE CLUB SHOOTS WITH EVANS CITY

Members of the New Castle Rifle club will go to Evans City for a league match tonight. The team will meet at the armory at 7 p. m. to make the trip.

Sports Incorporated of East Palestine, Ohio, will meet the league-leading Beaver Valley club.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

GREATEST heavyweight of all time was Jack Dempsey, says Gene Tunney, one of the few boxers who retired undefeated from the heavyweight throne—and who licked Dempsey twice. The polished boxer who used to commune with Shakespeare in training camps went far out on a limb, analyzed every heavyweight in training camps during the last century—except himself—and tabbed the Manassa Mauler as the kingpin of them all. "By the process of elimination of all other heavyweights," Tunney writes in Collier's. "I don't want it thought that I have anything but the highest regard for Louis. He reigned longer than any other heavyweight champion and remained at his peak longer than any other champion. The answer to whether or not Louis was the greatest ever gets down to what one thinks about Dempsey. For if Dempsey was not, surely Joe Louis was."

Here are Tunney's analyses of the heavyweights:
Dempsey—"In addition to hitting fast and with deadly effect, Dempsey was very fast on his feet. He could take advantage of an opening more readily than any heavyweight I have ever seen perform. . . when Dempsey was hurt, his efforts seemed to increase and he became that much more dangerous. . . he possessed a fine instinct for prize fighting, his instinctive reactions somehow made good strategy."

Louis—"His fights after he won the championship from Braddock were mostly with second, third and even fourth-raters. Louis was great enough to ward them off, but who knows what would have happened had a real contender faced him? . . . Louis recuperated quickly and maintained his deadly punch with his right to the very end. While Louis had been blessed with a power-packed right hand, Dempsey had one too and was almost equally blessed with a left hook."

Jack Johnson—"His contest with Stanley Ketchel, a middleweight whom he took 12 rounds to defeat, was an indication of his lack of effectiveness. . . his showing against Jim Jeffries, when he won final claim to the heavyweight championship of the world on July 4, 1910, was not of championship quality."

Jim Jeffries—"I cannot conceive of Jim Jeffries, even in his prime, finishing a 15-round fight with either Louis or Dempsey. . . he was too easily hit."

Jim Corbett—"Fleet-footed, brainy and quick in his reflexes. . . introduced class to the prize ring. . . I sincerely believe that he might have defeated Joe Louis in a 15-round bout if they could have met at their peaks."

Jack Sharkey—"A man of considerable potential, but because of his emotional make-up, crises within the ring muddled his thinking."

Max Schmeling—"Had a beautiful straight right-hand punch. . . but he lacked the quality of greatness. . . he never seemed to sense the dramatic moment to step in to win, as was demonstrated in his fights with Max Baer and Jack Sharkey."

Max Baer—"Victim of his own adolescent desires—too much night-clubbing and clowning, and not enough serious training. . ."

Jim Braddock—"His inclusion among the heavyweight titleholders was the sheerest bit of luck. . . wore the heavyweight crown shakily for two years without defending it, until Joe Louis knocked it off his head once and for all."

Primo Carnera—"Biggest man ever to fight under modern rules, he won an impressive number of frivolities because of the mediocrity of his opponents, mostly setups."

As for Dempsey and Louis hooking up in their primes, Tunney writes:

"I am of the belief that Dempsey would have caught Louis with a left hook early in the fight and started him on the road from which he could never recover, despite his great powers of recuperation. Dempsey was a tiger as a finisher. As a hitter Louis was a killer; but I think Dempsey would have beaten him to it."

New Wilmington Meets East Brook Tuesday Evening

Only two games—Bessemer at Union and East Brook at New Wilmington—will be played in Section 24 Tuesday night. The Wampum-Mt. Jackson game at Mt. Jackson has been postponed until Wednesday night and Shenango is idle. The New Wilmington-East Brook game holds the spotlight as Tuesday as the two teams battle for the runner-up spot in the section. East Brook, on the rebound from its defeat at Wampum Friday, will be a tough team to beat and the Greyhounds will have the chance to show just what they can do.

Doubtful Loss

The only defeat the Greyhounds have suffered in league play was to Mt. Jackson, and it is very probable that game will be ordered replayed due to an error in officiating. In other league games New Wilmington has topped Union and Bessemer.

East Brook also has victories over Union and Bessemer and another over Shenango.

Union makes another try to get into the victory column in section 24 competition and the loss of averages says that Bessemer had better be on its toes.

The Scotties are a much better team than their 0-4 record indicates and they'll be out to prove it. The Cementers, on the other hand, are a greatly improved team, just how much improved remains to be seen.

SECTION SHORTS

Don Schena now holds a 17-point scoring lead over Robert Anderson, his nearest competitor, due to his 19-point total against East Brook Friday. . . . Section 24 scoring leaders are. . . Schena 70, Anderson, 53, Albert Armortorio 48, Walt McGinnis 46, Bud Mayberry 42, Pat Kerr 41, Tom Hutchinson 40. . . . Union shot 55 times in its game with Mt. Jackson Friday and hit only eight times for a 14.6 percentage. . . . The Scotties shot 18 times in the first half without hitting their mark.

Sportsmen Meet Tuesday Night

President Jack Diamond of the Lawrence County Sportsman's association, stated today members of the association will meet at eight o'clock, Tuesday night, in Ecclesiast Hall, South Jefferson street. Because it will be the first meeting of Diamond's administration, it is probable he will outline a program of activities for the year.

Six or seven local business men will underwrite the $18,000 debt free sale and will then sell shares at $10 each to liquidate the stock.

Elmer Daily, president of the league, from his home in Ebensburg has given his stamp of approval to the sale of the club to local holdings.

New Castle will be ready to start the league season with a fast team on the field, one that will do credit to the city.

Fox, Coon Hunters Assemble Tonight

Lawrence County Fox and Coon Hunters Association members will meet in McBride post, V.F.W. 522, which is in Grant street, at 8 o'clock tonight, according to D. N. Reno, secretary. Reports will be made of recent hunts and proposed spring trials will be discussed.

In this more enlightened period in which we live, fighters are dying at the rate of about one every three weeks. Either 12 or 18 fighters died in 1949, depending on whether you feel like counting amateurs. Without traceable exception all 18 of these deaths could be ascribed to acute bodily malfunction in the area known as the brain, which, in most human beings, does the thinking.

Westminster's Tall Titans coasted to an easy 89-52 victory over Bethany Saturday night for their 63rd straight home court win and their 10th victory in 12 starts this season.

After running up 30 points to the visitors nine in the first 10 minutes of the game, Coach Grover Washabaugh pulled his starting lineup out of the contest and played the remainder of the game with his reserves. Fourteen men in all saw action in the game.

Titans Just Coast

In the preliminary Westminster's Jayvees defeated Bethany Jayvees 54-48 in a closely contested affair. All of the Titan Jayvees saw action later in the feature contest.

The hapless Bisons found it difficult to make a contest out of the main event. Westminster led 16-3 after five minutes of play and after that it was only a matter of how many points Washabaugh wanted to run up against the visitors.

The game was a welcome rest for the Titans who had been forced to go all out for a one point victory over Baldwin Wallace the preceding night at Cleveland. It was their third win in four days action.

Waynesburg Saturday

All 14 Titans scored in the contest. John Abraham of Irwin was high scorer for the Titans with 12 points, followed by Ed Halas of Ford City and Don Meyers of Pittsburgh with 10 points each. Don Harris and Edgar Martin were high for the Bisons with 15 points each.

This week the Titans take a well deserved rest until Saturday night when they engage the high flying Waynesburg quintet at Waynesburg.

Sharon-Mahoning Game Tops Junior Section Schedule

Union Plays At Farrell, Franklin
Travels To Butler, Washington Idie

Mahoning entertains Sharon, Union travels to Farrell, and Benjamin Franklin takes a trip to Butler in Section 17 Junior WPIAL games Tuesday afternoon, Washington is idle.

Mahoning will be out to cut Sharon down to size when the undefeated Tigers travel to Mahoning. The small and friendly Mahoning floor should be some help to the Seventh ward team.

Union makes its first trip out of the county Tuesday when it travels to Farrell to meet the Steeler Juniors. The Farrell Junior high team lost its first game Friday to Sharon 27-25, and should have little trouble with the Scotland Laners.

Franklin will be out for its third straight at Butler. Butler notched its first victory in league play at the expense of Union Friday and will be out to add its second Lawrence county scalp. The Patriots victory over Washington Friday boomed their stock considerably and marks them as one of the top teams in the section.

Junior Church League Results

A strong First Presbyterian team failed to repeat its first round victory over the First Baptist five in the first game on Saturday's card in "A" circuit play in the junior church league at the Y.

First Baptist led all the way and won by a close score, 25 to 22

Branscome and William split 20 for the winners. Cobau was the best for the Presby quint. Second U.P. downed Central Presby 47 to 19. Kaplan and Tom Hanna divided 22 markers for the winners. Shorly McGuire had nine in the losing effort.

First Christian swamped the midwests from Corton, 54 to 16. Anthony Meyers, and Montgomery sparked the Christian win. Fred Benninghoff scored half of Corton's point total.

In the "AA" league S.S. Alliance walked over Epworth 42 to 17. Jim Phillips paced the Alliance five.

In the closest game in the "A" circuit, Third U.P. defeated First Methodist 27 to 23. Mooney was high for the victors. Taylor and Bradley each had 8 points for Methodist.

AZA won its six game in a row by beating St. George 29 to 24. Haines and Greenberg again came through with scoring honors.

Next Saturday's card pits Second U.P. against Croton. First Presby tangles with First Christian, and First Baptist engages Central Presby.

In the "AA" loop, First Methodist tests the S. S. Alliance. St. George is matched with Epworth, and Third U.P. meet AZA.

St. Mary's Victors Over VFW 315, 51-49

St. Mary's Big Five came from behind Sunday to defeat VFW 315, 51-49, at the Catholic Center floor.

The Boosters led 41 to 33 as play began in the last period and the visitors found their "eye," beside setting up a very good defense. Peterson kept the Booster quint in the game with his sets in this period and played well and defense. Ayers, Farrow and Pandek were high scorers for Brighton.

Wednesday night the East Brook five tangles with the Bessemer Legion at Bessemer.

New York Stocks

STOCK MARKET IS IRREGULAR

No Clear-Cut Trend Shown In Run Of Active Industrial Leaders

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—(INS)—The stock market drifted irregularly lower today as the volume of trading tapered off appreciably.

The run of active industrial leaders showed no clear-cut trend. U. S. Steel was off 1-4 at 26 3/4; General Motors unchanged at 69 3/4; Union Carbide off 1-4 at 43; Westinghouse Electric up 1/4 at 30 3/4; and General Electric up 1-4 at 41 1/4.

Standard of New Jersey was a firm spot in the oils, gaining 3-4 to 67 1/2, while Anaconda was 1-8 lower at 29 1/2 in the coppers.

Admiral Radio, which had been one of last week's top favorites, fell back 5-8 to 22 1/2 under profit-taking.

Volume for the first hour totaled 310,000 shares, as against 410,000 on Saturday and 750,000 in last Friday's hectic opening hour.

The bond market favored the downside with scattered pressure on U. S. government and rail issues.

Commodities were easier. Wheat was off 1-8, corn down 1-2 and cotton 25 cents a bale lower.

CLOSE CULLING FEATURES THRIFTY POULTRY PROGRAMS

Experienced poultrymen know that frequent, close culling is the only way to operate on an efficient basis. In order to meet the effect of over-supply and low prices at certain seasons, they must keep the laying flock operating at a high rate of production. When production goes below 50 per cent, it is time to do some culling.

Close observation of market conditions and good record-keeping to eliminate the guesswork has told many poultrymen there is a time when the fowl has a greater market value for meat than as an egg producer. One way to operate the poultry business at a profit is to eliminate all unprofitable birds, regardless of age and to do it as often as possible.

No more layers should be housed than available equipment and labor can properly handle. That helps to eliminate waste. All surplus stock, such as males no longer needed for breeding purposes, should be marketed promptly.

The culling job can be made easier by having enough equipment on hand to do the job quickly and well. On a large-scale operation, ample crates at hand and a culling hurdle will speed up the job. This method is described in the circular "Ways To Save Labor Caring for Layers," which may be obtained at the Agricultural Extension Office, 206 Post Office Building, New Castle.

BONING MEAT SAVES LOCKER SPACE

Meat takes only a little more than a half as much space in boned, a factor worth considering where it is to be held in lockers.

Soup stock can be made from the bones and canned. Cut the meat into pieces of desired size and wrap them with waterproof, heavy kraft paper, waxed on one side. Freezer burn can be avoided if these individual pieces are amply wrapped. Each step in the process of wrapping is described in the publication "Freeze Meat and Poultry." This publication also gives instruction for boning.

Information on the canning of meat is given in a circular "Canning Meat and Poultry at Home," which is also available upon request.

"Farm Dressed Pork" and "Farm Dressed Beef and Veal" are the titles of publications which may be obtained by those interested in these activities. Requests should be made to the Agricultural Extension Office, 206 Post Office Building, New Castle, Pa.

INFRA-RED LAMP IN SHOP HANDY FOR SHORT JOBS

An infra-red or heat lamp over the work bench or machine being repaired provides comfort for that short job in the shop. Heat from such lamps is instantly available and is not lost to the air.

These lamps are finding favor also in thawing frozen radiators and connections as well as water pipes. Connected with a thermostat they can be used to protect pumps and plumbing fittings in milk houses and out-buildings from freezing.

SMALL CHILDREN CAN LEARN TO SAVE MONEY

All parents are concerned that their children learn to save. Perhaps this matter came up at Christmas when the children received money as a gift. Parents often feel that children should save it to buy a bond or apply it to a college fund, but children sometimes have other ideas for using the money.

The younger the child the shorter the span of time that he can conceive of. There is a period when he knows "no." "Later" to him means "never." Only after having lived and experienced does a child think in terms of the past and the future. Even then the past and the future does not extend very far from the "now."

It is through gradual growth and experience with words and their meaning that children are able to put off for short periods of time their present wants. In time children learn that these periods of putting off something in the future can be lengthened. Encourage your children to start saving small amounts for short periods of time, then buy something they want.

It is important that whatever the child is saving for be something that he wants. Saving in itself is not a virtue, but saving for something, saving toward a goal, does make for happier living. Through talking and planning with the child, saving can get a start in these small beginnings. Gradually the amounts and the periods over which a child can save will grow.
